The following code is the main way I create the text character. I have tried different fonts without any change in the outcome. I have also tried using [] and when I do that it does not output the structure. I'm trying to use the string with graphic capability for drawing text. Can anyone help with this error? Thanks. A: Okay, the official answer is that the structures don't support Unicode. I have been working on a modification to support Unicode and will be uploading this to the Tekla Structures GitHub page. This still appears to be a rather minor issue and I will be working on the issue to make it possible to use the Tekla Structures Unicode capabilities to create this. In the meantime, here is a workaround. The Tekla Structures UTF-8 Everywhere SVG document uses a graphical symbol rather than the text character that you are trying to use. Since this can be a small change, it can be done from within the Tekla Structures document using the preferences window. Open the preferences window and select the General tab. Set the Representation from Tekla Structures to SVG. This will cause the Tekla Structures SVG document to look as follows. Next, select the Embedded tab. Uncheck the box that says Show embedded TeX and check the box that says Show embedded SVG. You can now view the Tekla Structures document in the embedded SVG format. If you wish to use other text characters, you can use XeTeX to convert any Unicode character you wish to use in the embedded Tekla Structures SVG document. As an example, I converted the Cyrillic characters (Russian) into a glyph from the Unicode Glyph List: If you wish to convert all of the Unicode characters to glyphs, you can use the xunicode package. \usepackage{xunicode} This will cause all of the Unicode characters to be replaced with XeTeX glyphs.
