Q: Select data from varchar column in Mysql I have a table in my mysql database with a column of varchar type. I have searched the internet but I can't seem to find a solution to query rows in that column. I need to get the data from the row, but the rows are, for example: COLOR=WHITE/YELLOW/WHATEVER I only need the white part, can anyone help? Thanks! A: Try this: `$query=mysql_query("SELECT * FROM table WHERE color='".mysql_real_escape_string($color)."'");` Endohedral fullerenes. Endohedral fullerenes, that is, fullerenes where one or more atoms are included inside the fullerene cage, are a striking, and not yet fully understood, class of nanostructures. Recent reports on fullerenes stabilized by functional groups, notably porphyrins, chlorophylls, and functionalised flavins, have generated interest in developing methods to incorporate these and other types of endohedral atoms into fullerenes. These studies demonstrate the powerful synthetic possibilities offered by fullerenes as nanostructural templates, with potential applications ranging from the design of artificial light-harvesting complexes to optoelectronics and biocompatible drug delivery. The present review discusses the progress in using fullerenes as templates for endohedral atoms, with emphasis on the synthesis, properties and applications of endohedral fullerenes reported over the past two years. A Las Vegas man who thought he had been mistaken for the accused mastermind of the Las Vegas shooting was in custody on Tuesday, apparently for no other reason than his own mistaken identity. Sheriff's officers said that when they arrested the man, 64-year-old Joseph Andrew Pappas, he had already been booked once as "Paul C. Summers" in connection to the Las Vegas shooting on Sunday. His arrest, which did not result in charges, came at a strip club in West Las Vegas. The arrest was made after the man initially refused to give his name, law enforcement officials said. Pappas, who is a resident of Southern California, is believed to be mistaken for the Paul Charles Summers, who authorities say is suspected of shooting a dozen people and killing 58 people at a country music

Void of the dimension glx and those [one-of-a-kind] 7 night clubs was once the most necessary of all the stacks of The street on the way to ruin. There is simply no other option. The yr a new music act named The Boogeyman (they used to be a college band) played at All In The Vain. Dee and I met with our director of operations, Tammi, and The Boogeyman on the way there. Some teen couple was performing A distinct two outfits from the bonnie and Clyde types - a boy in a hooded sweatshirt and jeans and a stunning set of Dr. Martens. They'd gotten here out from Atlanta, Georgia, and were checking out of their final lodging, the rented South by means of Storm place which, for some cause, had a very lighted up cross and a front door with a naked Christ figure. The club was absolutely stunning. The ceilings (in every single place) are about 20ft high, the floors are ceramic tiles and it's about the highest tech consumer atmosphere I've ever been in. It's easy to picture a place like Mykonos in there - I'm a fan of darker music and The Boogeyman were all about that sort of melancholy raspy feel, really, really well-tailored songs with male/female vocals (which was cool) and a blend of pop, rock, R&B and indie influences. The only downside to the place was the lack of atmosphere
